With the changing times, there are more and more styles in designing, but some are still maintained like the retro style which is being favored by various groups. In addition to interior design, people also still use a lot of retro-style products that are applied at home. One of the retro products is furniture for relaxing. In addition to the attractive design, the materials used are various, for example, PVC rubber that can support the body well when used because it can follow the shape and weight of the user's body. In addition, there are many Indonesian works that need to be preserved and introduced, for example, weaving. Each pattern and color of weaving has a meaningful and different meaning in each region, but not many know the types of weaving that come from regions, especially remote areas in Indonesia. Therefore, it is necessary to have a media to introduce Indonesian weaving and the renewal of the PVC rubber chair which is currently quite difficult to find so that the uniqueness of the PVC rubber chair with the application of Indonesian weaving can be enjoyed by consumers while introducing Indonesian culture.
