This study explains how the framing of Kompas.com and Detik.com is different in presenting news related to Terawan's Performance as Health. The research method used in this research is Pan and Kosicki's model framing analysis. Researchers look for facts that are trying to be highlighted and what reality the two media want to build by analyzing the news that is shared related to Terawan using four structures, namely: syntax (how to write news), script (how to tell stories), thematic (how to write stories), how journalists write facts) and rhetorical (how journalists write facts). In this study, it has been found that Kompas.com and Detik.com have their own frame in reporting Terawan's performance. Kompas.com has a framing that presents news about Terawan's performance more critically, as seen from the use of the control title Detik.com seems to only construct positive things while spreading Terawan's performance, tends to look for safety in its news.
