The market is formed to meet the needs of the community with various activities in it. The market has 2 types at this time the famous ones are the traditional market and the modern market. A traditional market is a market that grows by itself according to the needs of the community so that buying and selling activities are formed. However, over time, so many markets have been formed, one of which is a modern market that has been designed according to its placement. Thus, the attractiveness of traditional markets is reduced. Through the development of time, traditional markets have changed, one of which occurred in Lembang Market, Ciledug. The method used in this research is qualitative. The scope to be researched is only in the Lembang market area. This research will produce physical changes that can be seen and grouped according to typological suitability.
