

ABSTRACT

High school or vocational high school graduates often feel confused in determining the chosen major, this has even happened to some new students who feel they have chosen the wrong major. The short film entitled "Wanna Be What" provides education for high school graduates and above to choose the right major in tertiary institutions through a cinematographic theory approach.

Keywords: Short film, Lecture Department, Education

