

ABSTRACT

A rapid development that never stop in the field of Information and Technology (IT) which directly affects the development of the internet. Provide a mean for people who involved and running their own business activities. A software application was made to ensure the spread of insigthful information about black and white photo colorization and restoration. This app uses SDLC (System Development Life Cycle) apporach, specificy Waterfall software development method. Powered by Laravel framework, MySQL databases and bootstrap framework. The result of this study is a form of a web-based software development documentation that can provide information about black and white photo colorization and restoration as well as the process of ordering service of them.

Keywords: Information Technology, System Development Life Cycle, Waterfall Software Development, business, black and white, colorization, restoration, service

