Gratitude is one of the fundamental aspects individuals need in their daily lives to interpret their work, social environment, and even find encouragement from loved ones like family in their daily activities. The purpose of this study is to understand the depiction of gratitude among motorcycle taxi drivers stationed at designated stands. The research involved 324 motorcycle drivers, and the instrument used to measure gratitude was the Gratitude Questionnaire-6 developed by Emmons. In this study, the researcher conducted the main analysis on the depiction of gratitude and demonstrated an empirical mean result of (M= 27.88) for the Gratitude Questionnaire-6 variable, which is greater than the theoretical mean (M= 18). Thus, it can be concluded that motorcycle taxi drivers stationed at designated stands exhibit high levels of gratitude.
